A Brief History...

In 1996 four industry professionals came together to form Aztec Components. Each experienced the lack of service in the industry and realized the need for a reliable, flexible independent distributor. Before Aztec, buying electronic components was expensive, risky and unpleasant. Each partner was expert in his or her own field. Together they formed the perfect team! Aztec focused on taking the risk and hassle out of every purchase. Our original customers still work with us today—and refer new ones across all industries including Aerospace, Automotive, Government, Consumer Electronics, Telecommunications, Medical, Military, Oil and Gas, Power, Automation, Manufacturing, Construction, Cellular, Transportation, Utilities and more. The Aztec team has grown to include professionals from the industries we serve. Aztec evolves to meet our customer's changing needs. Through the years we have introduced increased levels of risk management and quality assurance. Many of the services we provide today were initiated by customers. Aztec is the extension of your procurement team.
